PLANS FOR COWLEY POOL REVEALED

A COMMUNITY group bidding to save Temple Cowley Pools from closure unveiled its plans for the site today

New architects drawings for the building in Temple Road show a revamped exercise studio sauna steam room gym changing rooms and plans to bring the diving pool back into use

Save Temple Cowley Pools (Save TCP) also want to run a new cafe and community centre from the same building

Plans will be on show to the public on Mondays at a meeting from 6pm at the United Reform Church Hall in Temple Road

It comes ahead of a decision on December 17 on whether the site will be sold to housing developers or given to Save TCP to carry out their plans

Oxford City Council's Executive Board, chaired by leader Bob Price (right), is due to decide at an Oxford Town Hall meeting from 5pm.

Nine other commercial bids will be considered

Save TCP has submitted eight petitions to the council fighting plans to shut the pool since they were announced in 2009

Save TCP director Nigel Gibson said "The key to successful community operation is being able to run the centre at a profit, something the council has failed to do

"We are following in the footsteps of the many communities up and down the country that have taken assets into community ownership and run them successfully

By Adam Flinn
adam.@taylornewspapers.co.uk

GOVERNMENT minister Penny Mordaunt has hailed Scieuce Vale as a "success story" following a visit to Milton Park on Tuesday

The local growth minister made the visit ahead of the government s announcement yesterday that their enterprise zone programme has created more than 12 500 jobs nationwide

A total of 760 jobs have been created at Milton Park and Harwell since Science Vale was set up in April 2012

It is hoped that a further 18 000 positions will become available over the next 15 years

"Science Vale is a success story and is building a deserv udly world-class reputation as a centre for excellence for sci ence and techuology," said Ms Mordaunt, MP for Portsmouth North

"The zone continues to attract some of the biggest names in business as well as the small innovators ta come to this part of the world.

"That is why we have spent millions in developing these sites, and it's great to see where that money is going first hand.

The government opened 24 enterprise zones across the country in 2012 as part of a 25 year project offering tax incentives, simplified planning and fast broadband to companies

James Dipple chief operating officer at Milton Park owners MEPC said "We are delighted to have played a small part in this significant enterprise zone announcement.

"Our Science Vale status helps us to continue t o develop a world class business community which is attractive for companies who have a vision to grow, innovate and succeed, and thus facilitate growth for the local as well as the wider economy

"Such growth not only at Milton Park but across the other UK enterprise zones can only be positive news for the benefit of all."

Towers refurb

OXFORD A project to refurbish five tower blocks in the city was given the go ahead last week by the city council s East Oxford Planning Committee

The Evenlode and Windrush towers in Blackbird Leys Plowman Tower in Northway Foresters Tower in Wood Farm and Hockmore Tower in Cowley will all be revamped as part of the project

Each tower will get new cladding on the side of the building as well as new roofs, windows and heating systems

Evenlode, Windrush, Plowman and Foresters towers' balconies will also be enclosed to create garden rooms'.

Scott Seamons the council's board member for housing and estate regeneration, said "This is an exciting and ambitious project

"There are over 700 residents whose living standards will be enhanced through this refurbishment project.

"We have been working closely with them through consultation regular updates and by recruiting block representatives from each of the tower blocks who have been involved au all aspects of the project."

It is expected to cost the council around £18 3million

Building work is due to start next spring and is expected to finish in 2018

West Way video launched to win over campaigners

• An artists impression of the redeveloped West Way shopping centre, with Seacourt Tower in the background (picture courtesy of Doric)

DEVELOPERS have unveiled a new video for a £100million scheme to redevelop West Way in Botley in hope of winning over a group of residents fighting the plans

Doric Properties and Mace want to knock down West Way shopping centre Elms Parade shops Field House sheltered housing and the empty Elms Court office block.

A supermarket, cinema, hotel, gym, shops 50 flats and 525 student rooms would be built in their place

Campaign group West Way Community Concern labelled revised plans, which included over 100 changes for the scheme "cosmetic" in September

And now a seven-minute video has been produced to try and convince doubters of the scheme's potential

Huw Griffiths, development director at Mace, said: "We know that there's been a few misconceptions out there about how our plans will look in reality.

"We hope that by having this pedestrian-level view of the whole site we can put those to bed and allow people to see it for themselves."

Mr Griffiths added: "We very much hope the local community will grasp this opportunity to seize the environmental and community benefits they deserve and which other local communities have enjoyed for many years."

Doric submitted amendments to its original plans to Vale of White Horse District Council on September 8.

Changes include reducing the height of the cinema by one metre and the hotel by one storey.

Other amendments include the supermarket reducing in size from 8,314sqm to 8,141sqm and it moving further north by 2m, as well as adding trees to act as a buffer screen.

Vale of White Horse District Council's planning committee will make a decision on the application at a meeting on December 3 at Abingdon's Guildhall in Abbey Close.

However, Chris Church, co-chair of West Way Community Concern, said: "This is still out of scale.

"It's squeezing an out of town shopping centre into a small suburban space and it is likely to cause very serious traffic congestion both on the A34 and Botley Road.

"All the glitzy videos in the world do not make any difference to that."

Pools decision looms

• From front page

If we are successful everyone wins. If we don't succeed, then the council can follow its original plan and sell the land for development.

"We have had fantastic support from the community and hope the council recognises just how much Oxford wants to keep Temple Cowley Pools open.

"The council put Temple Cowley Pools on the market in January this year before Save TCP nominated the site as an asset of community value in March.

Their nomination was accepted in April, and Save TCP were given six months to submit their proposal, which they did on October 6.

The city council first announced its intention to close Temple Cowley Pools five years ago and replace it with a new pool at Blackbird Leys Leisure Centre.

Cllr Price said: "From our point of view there is no great value in having a pool there.

"But obviously if another group wishes to spend money on refurbishing it and running it as a pool and can make it profitable, then that's their business.

When we get to the board in December there will be a decision to go for the best value commercial bid or to opt for the other one."

Residents call for flats to be lowered after report

CAMPAIGNERS against the controversial Castle Mill student flats are calling for them to be reduced in height after the publication of an Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA).

The flats in Roger Dudman Way which house 312 students, have angered local residents who believe the six buildings should be lowered by one storey.

Activists say the flats have had a detrimental impact on the city's landscape particularly from Port Meadow.

The EIA lists three measures to mitigate the visual impact of the flats from Port Meadow – a façade and colour treatment the lowering of roofs and the demolition of one floor from all six buildings.

Save Port Meadow campaigner Toby Porter said: "Cosmetic masking with trees and cladding is clearly not enough.

"The EIA clearly shows that only a reduction in height will substantially reduce harm.

"That is what the city and residents of Oxford deserve and that is what the thousands of Save Port Meadow campaigners expect to see."

Oxford City Council granted the university planning permission in February 2012 without an EIA.

The university promised to produce a retrospective EIA assessment after a High Court hearing in October 2013.

And the report was released on October 30 this year confirming 'substantial harm had been done to Port Meadow.

By Jack Johnson
jack@taylornewspapers.co.uk

But Oxford University's director of estates Paul Goffin says lowering the height of the buildings will "require large and unacceptable expenditure of its funding".

He added: "The university is proposing additional measures to adapt the landscaping and the cladding of the new buildings to blend them in better with the surrounding area.

"We will plant more trees on the western boundary of the site and we will soften the colour and textures of the buildings."

Stephen Rouse a spokesperson for Oxford University said: "We do not believe options two or three make sense for the city or the university.

"They would mean all students vacating the buildings for a year and option three would involve removing rooms costing tens of millions of pounds and putting more pressure on Oxford's already over-stretched housing market."

The EIA is now under consultation until December 19 and the council's West Area Planning Committee is expected to make a decision on the mitigation options on January 15.

Choirs to perform for Christmas light festival

MORE than 700 singers from local choirs and schools are set to perform across Oxford next Sunday as part of this year's Christmas Lights Festival.

The Day of Song, on November 23 is the culmination of the city's Christmas festival running from November 21 to 23.

It follows the city's Christmas lights switch on on Friday November 21.

Choirs will sing in churches museums and shops across the city.

They will perform separately during the day before coming together for a grand finale at the Town Hall at 5pm.

Event producer Cat Kelly said: "I'm so excited about the idea of filling Oxford with song, and I'm estimating we'll have around 750 singers performing on the day.

"The finale event at Oxford Town Hall will bring together about half of those singers, and it should be an absolutely stunning way to close the festival.

Christine Simm the city council's board member for culture and communities, added "We are really looking forward to hearing Oxford come alive with song.

Singing is a very powerful community activity and a lovely way to celebrate the beginning of the festive season.

Celebrities invest in energy project

By Adam Flinn
adam.flinn@newspapers.co.uk

A SOCIAL enterprise that is raising £1 5million to install solar panels onto 18 schools in Oxfordshire has passed the halfway point to its target, attracting celebrity interest along the way

The Low Carbon Hub has so far attracted £771 400 of investment from 167 people including entrepreneur Richard Branson and environmentalist Jonathan Porritt.

TV presenter Kevin McCloud best known for hosting Grand Designs has also invested in the project

"I've invested in the Low Carbon Hub scheme because it's the future," he said

"The most pressing and the most demanding issue that our local economies face is in how we source our energy to power our homes cars factories and hospitals

"Doing that sustainably efficiently and locally will make the single biggest difference to our environmental footprint."

The project is part of the hub's plans to create a renewable energy system for Oxfordshire with power collected from the solar panels going back into the National Grid.

Money made from the energy collected will then be returned to the investors

Barbara Hammond chief executive of the Low Carbon Hub, said "We are really pleased to see so many people get behind this project.

Now that we have reached the halfway mark we can be confident that the projects will definitely go ahead

"We are now doing a big push to reach our target by the end of November to maximise the benefit to communities."

After installing the panels on the first 18 schools the Low Carbon Hub is hoping to extend the project further with dozens of other sites having expressed interest.

The share offer is open until November 28 with investors receiving an expected return of five per cent per annum.

For more details on the project or to invest go to their website lowcarbonhub.org.

Victim's mum makes plea for motorists not to drink

A MUM whose 19 year old son was killed by a drunk driver in Wantage 16 years ago is urging motorists not to drink and drive as part of an Oxfordshire County Council campaign promoting non alcoholic drinks

Jane Evason's son Gareth was hit in Woodhill Lane on May 3 1998 by a car being driven by a friend who was two and a half times over the legal limit

She joined the council's road safety manager Mick Clarke at the Co op on Kidlington High Street last Friday to promote non alcoholic drinks as an alternative to alcohol

Mrs Evason said "Gareth's brother Neil is now married and has two beautiful boys which bring us such joy and help ease the pain a little but Neil has no brother to share this with and the boys will never know their uncle

"This is what drink-driving does to families – not just ours but hundreds of others as well

"The only way people can be sure that the decisions they take when driving won't be impaired is by not having any alcohol before getting behind the wheel."

It comes as road safety organisation Think! marks 50 years since showing its first drink drive public information film.

Injuries caused by drink-driving have fallen significantly in Oxfordshire from 298 when records began in 1979 to 50 last year

But deaths have remained at a similar level in the county over the past two decades with a total of 36 people killed through drink driving since 1994

Mr Clarke said. "The tragedy which happened to the Evason family is a stark reminder of the dangers associated with drink driving.

"While it is encouraging that over recent years numbers of accidents caused by drink driving have fallen locally unfortunately there are still those who get behind the wheel after drinking alcohol.

"It is essential that people also know that the effects of alcohol can still last into morning after a drinking session and it is vital not to get caught out if people plan to drive to work or take the children to school"

Blanket checks

OXON Almost a quarter of electric blankets tested by Oxfordshire County Council's Trading Standards team during a recent campaign failed safety checks

A total of 779 blankets were examined during a number of free test sessions, with 189 found to be unsafe

The failure rate was similar to last year but remains the lowest it has been since the testing campaign was launched 16 years ago.

Red kite is named in top-10

THE red kite often seen in the skies above Oxfordshire after being reintroduced to the area in 1989 has made the top 10 in a search to find Britain's national bird

After vanishing from England a number of pairs of red kites were released around Oxfordshire and Buckinghamshire and was considered an ideal habitat for the bird of prey

The birds have flourished in the area over the past 25 years and are now regularly seen in the county

And the red kite's success has led to it making the top-10 in the search for a national bird, from an original starting list of 60

TV presenter David Lindo who launched the search, said. "It's great to see the red kite in the top 10

"It's a testament to the success of the re-introduction programme and confirms what a beautiful and popular bird this is and the fact that we were certainly worse off without this raptor."

The top six birds will go forward to a second round of voting on November 30

The final winner is due to be announced in May

To vote for the top-10 go to votenationalbird.com.

Katherine Grainger is uni's new chancellor

OLYMPIC gold medallist Dr Katherine Grainger has been chosen as Oxford Brookes University s new chancellor succeeding human rights activist Shami Chakrabarti in the role

Katherine is best known for her rowing achievements and is the only British female athlete to win medals in four consecutive Olympic Games

She has previously sat on judging panels for the Oxford Brookes Social Entrepreneur Awards and was given an honorary degree by the university earlier this year

Katherine said. "I have huge admiration for each of my three predecessors as chancellor of Oxford Brookes

I m very honoured to have the opportunity to build on the outstanding work they have each done on behalf of the university during their terms of office

It is an institution that can be proud of the difference it continues to make to the lives of individuals and the contribution it makes to society more widely

The role is largely ceremonial with duties including holding an annual lecture presiding over certain ceremonies and acting as an ambassador for Brookes

Katherine will take up the position on March 20 next year as part of its Three Chancellors event, celebrating the 150th anniversary of the university

She takes over from Shami Chakrabarti who is moving on to become chancellor of the University of Essex having been at Brookes since 2008

Shami said Katherine Grainger is the perfect next chancellor of Oxford Brookes, epitomising excellence endeavour and the positive values that are so important to our tradition

"I have no doubt that both student and academic bodies will be as proud of this inspired appointment as I am."

Brookes vice-chancellor Professor Janet Beer added. "Katherine is the embodiment of Oxford Brookes values

Oxford Brookes had benefitted hugely from having Sham as our chancellor and I am delighted that in Katherine the university has an inspirational figure to take on this important role

"Katherine will be an incredible role model for our students, staff and wider community

Mayor's Column

Jane Titchener

Mayor of Wallingford

Lucky to live in Wallingford

The last week or so has given me many opportunities to reflect on how lucky we are in Wallingford

On Halloween the town council was out and about handing out treats kindly donated by Waitrose

Everyone we met was in good spirits there were some great costumes on show and the town was full of excited youngsters happily collecting sweets and other treats

Last Saturday saw our Bonfire and Fireworks evening organised once again by the 1155 Club

This year the attendance was terrific, with more people than ever before coming along to see one of the best fireworks displays we have ever had.

The money is still being counted, but I believe that the event has raised a record total for local charities It was quite amazing to come back into town the following morning to find hoards of beavers cubs and scouts busily collecting the discarded sparklers and the remains of the fireworks

By the time they had finished you would never have known that so many people had been there the night before

And finally Remembrance Sunday I was very proud to lead the town in our act of remembrance The sun shone and the town felt silent the minutes silence was only broken by the sound of the approaching fly past of helicopters from RAF Benson

Being mayor is a great honour and it is a week like this that gives us all so many reasons to be proud.

The news comes as men all over the country are growing moustaches throughout November to raise awareness of prostate cancer

Experts say the study will help identify what life is like for men who have been diagnosed and what steps can be taken to improve experiences

The project called Life after prostate cancer diagnosis has been funded by the organisation Movember Foundation in partnership with charity Prostate Cancer UK

Ella Watson professor in Supportive Cancer Care at Oxford Brookes University is part of the survey development team

She will carry out interviews with men and partners for the study and said "This is a very exciting initiative

"We need a better understanding of the issues men face in the years following diagnosis and treatment and the impact prostate cancer has on their quality of life

"This study will give us the opportunity to ask men of all ages and backgrounds from all over the UK what things are really like for them, what issues are most important and where any gaps in services and support are."

Researchers aim to identify how a diagnosis of prostate cancer impacts a man s daily life

The results are intended to help shape changes to improve care in the future

The project will be led by Dr Adam Glaser at the University of Leeds as well as Dr Anna Gavin at Queen s University Belfast

Researchers at Oxford Brookes University the University of Southampton and government organisation Public Health England will work with them.

Similar studies have also been planned to launch in Ireland and also Australia

Rogue trader admits to wrongdoing

A GARDENER caught out by Trading Standards officers on a routine patrol admitted to trying to fleece a Kennington resident out of £1 700

David Smith, 50 who traded under Tree and Garden Services was handed a community order of 200 hours unpaid work and told to pay his victim £700 in compensation and £500 for causing distress on November 5

Oxfordshire s Trading Standards team leader Anu Prashar said This case is an example of an opportunist trader who thought he could charge a householder a vastly over inflated price for shoddy repair work

"It just goes to show unfortunately there are dishonest traders out there who will chance their arm in search of a quick buck."

Oxford Crown Court heard a patrol spotted a vehicle in Simpsons Way on October 24 2012

Officers spoke to Smith and then to a householder who complained of his work.

Smith had told his victim repair work on loose tiling would cost around £360 before upping the price to £1 700 after claiming a chimney needed repointing.

He admitted engaging in an unfair commercial practice and was also ordered to pay £1 000 in costs is an 18th century Coaching Inn with luxury bedrooms recently taken on and owned by Mary and Nick Galer. It is nestled away in the heart of the idyllic village of Goring on Thames and overlooks rolling West Berkshire and South Oxfordshire countryside, a stones throw from the river Thames. The Miller is open 7 days a week for eating, drinking and sleeping.

The Miller of Mansfield

Nick and Mary have an extensive culinary and hospitality background and bring this knowledge to the Miller to create a very special and cosy atmosphere. The kitchen is at the heart of everything good about the Miller and Nick oversees the delivery of fine British ingredients and produce. The Miller atmosphere created by Mary and her team is always at the forefront of their service ethos. Nick and Mary oversee the team to ensure hospitable service is delivered to every customer.

The key things that have enabled Nick to succeed at the Crown are his knowledge and passion for the product and the British food scene. I'm interested to see where he might take his creativity as he moves onto the next stage of his career.
Heston Blumenthal

Mary and Nick have completed their first busy summer and are now looking forward to a winter where log fires, heart-warming food and a cosy ambience are priority. They have just introduced a lunch menu Mon-Fri 2 courses £12.50 & 3 courses £15.00 and are currently changing their ALC menu in line with the seasons. Every Sunday they offer a Sunday Supper Club where a set main course and a drink is available for £12.50 (advertised on the website). They also hold a monthly Locals Night where a 5 course tasting menu is £20.00 and a wine flight is available for just £12.00.

Despite only being open for 5 months, they are delighted that they just won 3rd place in Best Themed Local (Restaurant category)-the only place outside of London to make the top 10.

Mary sets extremely high standards and with a sharp eye for detail and a natural ability to lead is always able to deliver. It is a rare talent to be able to offer a professional but also genuinely warm welcome to her guests.
Matthew Tomkinson, Roux Scholar

Christmas is fast approaching and Mary & Nick are looking forward to accommodating family gatherings, friend reunions and corporate get togethers. Menus can be obtained by calling or emailing using the details below.

Mary and Nick are keen to be around for the long term having just moved their young family from Maidenhead and would very much like the opportunity to be introduced and hope to meet you soon.

Prolific offender jailed for Oxford robbery

A MAN responsible for robbing an Oxford bank seven years ago has been jailed for 17 years

Jonathan Whitton, 36, of Drenon Square, Uxbridge, was sentenced at Kingston Crown Court on October 31

He pleaded guilty to five counts of robbery including the Abbey National robbery on November 13, 2007, and three counts of firearm and ammunition possession

Whitton was in court with Hugh Atkins, 32, of Burtwell Lane and Leon Simpson, 40, of Lambert Road, both London.

Jonathan Whitton

By Jack Johnson
jack.johnson@newspapers.co.uk

The trio were sentenced to a combined total of more than 35 years for a series of robberies and being in possession of fire arms and ammunition

Police say the offences across the Thames Valley and London were between 2007 and 2013

The first was the Oxford robbery from Abbey National

Investigating officer Det Con Matt Kent said: "This gang operated across the south east for a number of years and I hope their sentences have given their victims a sense of closure, some of whom suffered terrifying ordeals at their hands."

Whitton and Simpson were also convicted of attempted robbery at a petrol station in Sternhold Avenue, Streatham, on May 21, 2013

And on July 10 the same year Whitton was involved in a robbery at the petrol station where a cash box was stolen.

On November 8 2013 the three men targeted a custodian collecting and delivering at a bank in Hayes, Middlesex.

A safe box with £30 000 worth of a customer's personal items was stolen, including items belonging to the family of a boy who died in a car accident

On December 9 last year Whitton and an unknown man assaulted two female staff members at Lloyds Bank in Stokenchurch, demanded the safe be opened and stole over £150 000

The men were arrested and charged on December 17 after a series of warrants, including four in Oxford.

At a house in Priory Road police found three firearms and ammunition in a cupboard.

Constituency figures out

JUST take a look at this constituency – it has seen unemployment in total fall to just 302 people (Job Seekers claimants)

The number of young unemployed – between 18 and 24 years old – and claiming Job Seekers Allowance across the whole of the constituency has fallen to 55 people in August, that figure stood at just 18 young people in Thame

The number of new apprenticeships created since the general election comes to 2,080. There has been an increase of almost 42 per cent for the number of work places employing apprentices this year

Those adversely affected by the spare room subsidy in its first year of operation came in about 70 people across the whole of the district

And finally the number of children in poverty in this constituency is at a level 45 per cent below the average for the South East at just over five per cent

I care passionately about the people trapped in these small numbers and I will not rest until the numbers are zero.

However you simply cannot turn away from this and not recognise that our long term economic plan is delivering these figures exemplify this

Has this situation occurred by accident? Of course not

It has been Conservatives in Parliament who have driven down unemployment as we have driven up growth

The International Monetary Fund has confirmed that Britain will be the fastest growing economy in the G7. More jobs, more security and more business.

This is the good news a Conservative government and a Conservative MP can bring WIN classic 80s music boxsets!

WHETHER it was politics pop culture fashion film or TV the eighties was a decade you either loved or loved to hate But nothing quite defines the 80s as does its music When it came to music during the decade nothing was understated, not the sound or fashion.

This autumn Universal Music Catalogue has announced two new releases focussing on the best of that period. Released 3rd November 12"/80s New Wave and 12"/80s Chilled feature a mix of iconic big hitters and cult club classics of the movement, both across 3 x CDs, all in their original 12" extended glory

At the beginning of the 80s out of the explosive sounds of 70s Punk evolved a phenomenal era of revolutionary bands and artists that came to be known as "New Wave" It encapsulated many different genres and sub genres of music and youth culture from New Romantic (Duran Duran Japan Human League) to Ska (The Specials The Beat) to Reggae (UB40) to Alternative (Simple Minds, Echo & The Bunnymen Altered Images Aztec Camera) all of which are represented on 12 /80s New Wave

Closing date:
Friday November 28 2014

12 /80s Chilled is the first compilation of its kind to focus on the more laidback, down tempo tracks of the decade Featuring 80s Electronic classics (Heaven 17 Japan OMD It s Immaterial) cool Dub/Instrumental remixes (Soft Cell Tears for Fears Hall & Oates) mellow jazz & sophisti pop (Bryan Ferry Swing Out Sister Matt Bianco) New Romantic anthems (Duran Duran Simple Minds Human League) and chilled 80s club beats (Bloodie New Order Frankie Goes to Hollywood, Chris Rea) 12"/80s Chilled is the perfect introduction to some of the great artists from the era.

Across two releases these songs set the gold standard for what pop music should be Thirty years on they are still the standard that today's artists get compared to Win copies!

We have copies of these great box sets to give away and to be in with a chance of winning one of each all you have to do is answer this simple question

Sudoku

The objective is to fill a 9×9 grid with digits so that each column, each row, and each of the nine 3×3 sub-grids that compose the grid (also called "boxes", "blocks", "regions", or "sub-squares") contains all of the digits from 1 to 9. Home buyers missing out in competitive mortgage market

Connells mortgage services consultant Tom Broad based at the branch in Headington is urging anyone who is thinking of taking out a mortgage to buy a home as well as home owners looking to remortgage not to get bogged down by mixed messages on interest rates and instead come in to discuss their options

According to Tom continued speculation about when the Bank of England base rate will rise is causing anxiety about the increasing cost of borrowing when many banks and building societies are still offering very competitive long-term interest rates on mortgages

He said "With so much media coverage of when the base rate is likely to rise home buyers could be forgiven for assuming that the cost of borrowing is going up when in many cases mortgage lenders have cut their rates due to fierce competition in the market We want to help buyers and those hoping to improve their current mortgage arrangements to take advantage of lower interest rates"

Connells endorses new Government lettings code

Lettings agency Connells based in Corn Street, Witney has welcomed a new code of practice for tenants agents and landlords which has been launched by housing minister Brandon Lewis

The team which serves many tenants landlords and buy to let investors in the Witney Carterton and Abingdon area says the new code is a positive step to eliminating rogue landlords and regulating the lettings industry to benefit tenants and reputable landlords

"All of our lettings agents here at Connells are fully trained and qualified with the Association of Residential Lettings Agents (ARLA)" lettings manager Lynda Woodcock said

"We follow a strict code of conduct as part of that ARLA qualification but welcome anything which reinforces industry best practice and is looking to stamp out unscrupulous unregulated landlords which give the industry a bad name

"Although this new code of conduct simply reinforces lettings practices which Connells Lettings is and has for some time adopted... such as protecting client money by way of a money protection scheme or providing clear and transparent information on fees and terms of business it is great to see housing minister Brandon Lewis high lighting industry best practice"

If you have a property to let and would like to speak to Connells Lettings about how the team can help, contact the branch on 01993 772150 or email Lynda woodcock@connells co uk

Investment potential close to good schools

Martin & Co Oxford lettings manager Richard Goodwin offers out advice on investment potential close to schools:

A factor not always considered when purchasing an investment property is its locality to a top state school

However as recent research suggests it could be a key factor in boosting your properties worth as premiums for proximity to certain schools are reaching as high as 282 per cent

A recent survey of over 400 schools indicated families are putting education in particular state school education as a priority when buying a home – with many moving just a few miles away to enter the catchment area for their desired school

Studies show an estimated 60 per cent of families move to secure a quality education for their young

Proof is in the pudding folks as we watched a three bedroom detached property in Wheatly let within hours over the asking price Yes you guessed it the family wanted the primary school

The top 30 schools effect house prices by an average of 10 per cent of the properties worth

The survey can only really examine inflation in price in sub-urban areas as the cost of city homes are subject to so many variables It becomes hard to attribute changes to one factor

In turn the lowest performing 25 per cent of schools are seeing a 19 per cent drop in house prices perhaps only further proof that well placed property is a recession proof investment

So as in investor how can you make this news work for you? Although it could be argued the data suggests only sale prices for homes are being effected a rental opportunity can be an ideal alternative

The thing to remember is the proximity to the best schools

If a property is reasonable walking distance of a school I rated good or 'outstanding by Ofsted then the value of the house should maintain

By offering a cheaper rental alternative then you are catering for a proportion of parents that cannot afford to buy a house closer to the catchment area but make the education of their young a priority

It has been proven that parents are willing to pay three times the amount it would cost to send their child to private education to move closer to a good state school A staggering nine times

the income of a British household Which means that buyers are adding almost a third onto the average house price It it is close to a good state school

If you are investing in property close to a good school it is worth remembering the flip side of your investment is that development or change to this school could also cause your investment to change in value

Bringing back rock 'n' roll

By Adam Flinn
adam@oxfordnewspapers.co.uk

GRIMSBY-BASED rock band The Brew make the trip down to Oxford next Monday to bring their modern blues sound to The Art Bar in Cowley Road.

Made up of guitarist and singer Jason Barwick, drummer Kurtis Smith and bass player Tim Smith, the group were voted best band in 2007 by It's Only Rock and Roll magazine.

They have been performing since 2004 and released their most recent album Control in February this year.

It began when Kurtis and his dad Tim began jamming together and started off doing one gig a month, with Jason joining a year later.

"It's like a family being on the road – well in mine and Kurt's case it is!" said Tim.

"I can honestly say in 10 years we have never fallen out, and the crew also are all good friends and have been with us for years."

And while the band regularly tour in the UK, they are increasingly finding success in mainland Europe.

"I think people in Europe of all age groups are still looking to seek out new music and are prepared to pay to see it, whether it has been hyped in the media or not," Tim added.

"I think they look upon it as a great social event going to a gig and a quality night out, not just throwing money over a bar.

"The UK was like this in the 70s with touring bands but has been in steady decline since which is a shame as the whole of Europe still regards the UK as the home of rock 'n' roll.

"Touring bands have such a hard time here getting in front of an audience, it just isn't like that abroad."

Doors open at 7.30pm. For more information go to artbaroxford.co.uk.

La Roux at the O2

SYNTHOPOP act La Roux, who found fame with the number one single 'Bulletproof' in 2009, comes to Oxford's O2 Academy on Saturday.

By Adam Flinn
adam@my newspapers.co.uk

Originally made up of singer Elly Jackson and record producer Ben Langmaid, La Roux is now a solo act of Elly who released her second album Trouble in Paradise earlier this year.

Trouble in Paradise came out in July to critical acclaim, peaking at number six in the UK album chart.

There had been a five year hiatus since the eponymous hit debut record, with the new offering featuring a more reggae-disco inspired sound.

Asked about changing La Roux's sound, Elly said: "It's a bit like saying why don't you go out with the same person you did when you were 17 – well, for obvious reasons.

"It's kind of a shock new 'if I listen to the first record' to be honest. I'm like 'what did we do – where's the bottom end, the bass?'

"But at the time that was exactly what I wanted it to sound like."

Elly had numerous musical influences growing up, particularly with folk, disco and artists including David Bowie, Madonna and Gerry Rafferty.

And she has been working with sound engineer Ian Sherwin, who encouraged her to not stick with the same sound.

"At the end of one record, you think you've learnt everything," said Elly. "This is what everybody says. 'Oh now I know what I'm going to do when I make the next album. I'm not going to make any of these mistakes again.'

"Then you get to the next album and you realise the same rules never apply.

"I think the fundamental thing is that Ian and I want the same thing artistically – he wants me to be the artist that I am."

Doors open at 6pm.

Korean car maker offers up extra options in the booming compact crossover market

Kia's new models in the mix

REVIEW Kia Soul

By James Richings

KIA'S all-new Soul range has been expanded with the arrival of two high specification models – named the Soul Mixx and Maxx.

The two models, which have hi car showrooms aim to create an impressive presence on the road

Their 18 inch alloy wheels, urban styling pack and LED daytime running lights set them apart from the very first Kia Souls that hit the road in 2008

The range set out to prove Kia could design and build excellent cars while keeping the focus on practicality and value for money

It became a market leader in the United States and China before hitting the dizzy heights of a top five car in its class

The 2014 second-generation version of the Kia Soul takes advantage of the boom in the compact crossover market with global annual sales forecast to rise to more than 800 000 by next year

Kia's all new Soul is designed to be stylish while taking on a SUV like appearance

All versions of the models are front wheel-drive and five-door crossovers

However, researchers at the South Korean manufacturer aimed to make the most out of the fact that while customers want the looks they do not want the taxation and higher fuel consumption that four wheel drives entail

Standard equipment on both models includes a premium Infinity sound system, eight inch touchscreen satellite navigation, leather upholstery heated front seats and automatic air conditioning

The Mixx comes with contrasting body and roof colours coloured door mirrors and a reversing camera.

In addition the Soul Maxx includes a smart key entry system with engine stop/start button, auto dimming rear view mirror, front and rear parking sensors and panoramic sunroof

The Soul Mixx is available in 1.6 CRDi six-speed manual and automatic versions as well as a 1.6 GDi manual with prices starting from £15 150

Pricing on the Soul Maxx starts from £19 550 and is available in six-speed manual 1.6 GDi and 1.6 CRDi options

For more information about both models visit kia.co.uk

Advertorial

Local used car dealership shows it's mark of respect..

IN 2011, owner of Lodge Hill Garage, Peter Jewson launched a campaign to raise money for a national monument to recognise the bravery of the Air Transport Auxiliary (ATA) Girls during World War 2 and honour them some of whom lost their lives delivering the aircraft to the battle stations The fundraising campaign was launched at a special event where Lodge Hill unveiled the life size spitfire replica, which they have placed on the garage roof adjacent to the showroom in tribute to these brave women as a permanent memorial

This year the staff at Lodge Hill Garage have really done themselves proud with their array of poppies to commemorate the fallen from the last two world wars a feature that has been noticed by many passers by

Lodge Hill Garage have also been instrumental in raising funds towards the Royal British Legion Poppy day appeal and have donated £50 from the sale of each car during Monday the third of November and the following Sunday, well from the Oxfordshire Guardian and all of our readers, we salute you

Michelle Elford.

Ferguson - We need to harness our frustration

ASSISTANT coach Matt Ferguson says London Welsh must use the frustratiou ot tosing to Gloucester last weekend as an incentive to getting off the mark in the Aviva Premiership on Sunday

The Exiles have had a four week break from the league with European Rugby Challenge Cup and LV= Cup pootgames dominating the fixtures

By Jack Johnson
jackoj.taylornewspapers.co.uk

Justin Burnell s side are still winless this season after 10 games but there was an overwhelming sense of frustration at the Kassam Stadium four days ago as Welsh went down 18 9 to Gloucester in the LV= Cup

Welsh were camped on the Gloucester tryline with four minutes to go and needed a converted try to claim the win.

However they could not muscle their way over the whitewash and the boot of Aled Thomas put the game beyond the Exiles

Ferguson is now hoping the Dragans can use all the frustratiou from last Sunday in a positive manner as they prepare for the short trip to London Wasps in three days time

He said "t think now we need to harness that frustration and use it for this weekend s game

"There has definitely been a bit of bite about training

We made it quite clear that we have to take these chances

"It tells you a lot about who we are as a club that we came tuto work on Tuesday thuking it was an opportunity missed.

After six rouuds of the Aviva Premiership the Exiles fiud themselves bottom af the table with just one bonus point defeat to their name

Welsh s campaign began with a thumping 52-0 defeat at home to Exeter Chiefs but Ferguson believes the club are now in better shape ahead of the next period of league rugby

He said. "The Premiership is what we are all about

"Do we enter the second block in a better shape then we entered the first block, yes I certainly believe we do

"We have had a pretty good taste of what it takes and we have been able to go away tar the last four weeks and get some reat quality coaching time

Reynolds urges for resolve

CENTRE Nic Reynolds says London Welsh have to earn a losing bonus pount at the least when they take on London Wasps in the Aviva Premiership ou Sunday

The Exiles return to league action this weekeud but are shiltwithout a win this season and are on a 10 match losing run in all competitions

Reynolds has made eight appearances for the Exiles since sigung in the summer and the 25-year old says Welsh must come away from Adams Park with something

He continued "Anything a losing bonus point a four-try bonus pound would be good

"We would take anything at the moment but we are going there to win

The Welshman says he and his teammates are desperate to record a victory and despite the defeats the effort levels cau never be questioned

Reynolds added "It is definitely not a lack of effort you can see that in the games

"Each week and contact training session there is definitely enthusiasm and desire"

City end poor run but are held to a draw by Celtic

OXFORD City's four-match winless run in the Vanarama Conference North came to an end last Saturday but they were forced to settle for a 1-1 draw at home to Stalybridge Celtic

Javi Rodriguez gave City an early lead but Liam Dickinson's equaliser saw Justin Merritt s side held to a draw at Marsh Lane for the fourth time this season.

City have slipped to ninth in the table as a result and are eight points behind league leaders Barrow who replaced AFC Fylde at the top

However a win for Merritt s side over local rivals Brackley Town on Saturday could see them return to the top four but it would require results going their way

Elsewhere Oxford City Ladies were dumped out of the Women's FA Cup last Sunday with a 10 1 loss at Forest Green Rovers

City made the third qualifying round after wins over Poole Town and Banbury United

ROBERTS FIRES U'S INTO NEXT ROUND

Fans hopes are high for 18-year-old striker after impressive debut

By Jack Johnson
jackej.tnjlornewspapers.co.uk

TEENAGER James Roberts said it was a dream come true to score twice on his first start for Oxford United and fire the club into the second round of the FA Cup

Roberts netted on 35 and 42 minutes as United beat Vanarama Conference club Grimsby Town 3-1 in the first round last Saturday

United will new face fellow Sky Bet League Two side Tranmere Rovers in the second round on December 6

The 18-year old s two goals marked the end of a week where he also penned a new deal at the club keeping him at the Kassam Stadium until 2018

Roberts told the club I will be recording the highlights because it's a dream come true.

"To be part of the FA Cup is great and to score two goals is unbelievable

"Hopefully that s enough to keep me in the squad and maybe in the starting eleven for the York game

"If it's not then I just keep working and wait for another opportunity"

Before Saturday Roberts had made five appearances from the bench but he took little time to make the most of his first start for the club

On 35 minutes he cut in from the left to curl a shot from 20 yards past James McKeown and into the bottom corner before tapping home a second before the break

Midfielder Danny Rose fired home a third to send United through and despite Shaun Pearson s 80th minute goal, head coach Michael Appleton was delighted.

He told the club "The three points (in the league) are 10 times more important but this will be good for us

"After a couple of narrow defeats it was nice to get the result.

"It would have been nice to keep the clean sheet but we re delighted and we go into next week with a bit of confidence."

United return to Sky Bet League Two action this Saturday with a trip to 20th placed York City

Top scorer Danny Hylton returns to the squad from suspension while Will Hoskins (groin) remains United's only long term absentee
